The Key to Starting Over

As a person who wants to leave your criminal past behind and rebuild your life, it is important that you realize that returning home to your community is a process that begins from the day you enter prison.

Don't wait until the last minute to prepare for your release.

Put your time to good use. It is up to you to follow the correctional plan that has been developed specifically to meet your needs. DOC will assign you a counselor who will monitor your progress in specific programs or treatment.

It is up to you to take advantage of educational and vocational programs that will help you once you are released. Talk to your counselor about a GED or college diploma, vocational training, parenting classes, basic life skills courses, and how you can get involved in other positive programs or activities within the prison.

Returning home successfully requires work, but it will be rewarding.

For you to be successful when you leave prison, it is important that you maintain connections to your family, religious or community organizations that are willing to assist offenders with reentry into the community. They will help you find solutions to problems and help you to live a safe and healthy life.

This network of support may help you find a place to live and a job, two very important parts of the reentry process. Employment will enable you to support yourself and your children, if any, and keep you on the track to a new lifestyle.

Get in touch with those individuals and organizations that you kept in contact with while in prison that can support your positive reentry into society. They can help you once you return home. Find ways to give back to your community. Be involved in local organizations. Avoid individuals and organizations that will encourage you to get re-involved in criminal activity.

Your parole agent can help you and your family once you are released. The parole board's goal is to help you be successful. Once you are released on parole, talk to your parole agent about your activities and get his or her support.

Remember - there are many agencies, programs and people waiting to help you succeed!

Highlights of the Parole Process

The parole process is best described as a series of steps for both the parolee and the Board.

Approximately 8 months prior to minimum date

Preparation of Case File

Required documentation is gathered and prepared for the parole interview.

Approximately 5 months prior to minimum date

Institutional Parole Agent

Inmate works with institutional parole agent to develop a reentry plan and prepare for interview.

Approximately 4 months prior to minimum date

Pre-Interview Case Review

Board Members/hearing examiners review file and reentry plan.

Board Interview

Conducted either in person by a Board Member or hearing examiner or by a panel of two decision makers or by video conference. Sex offenses and Murder 2 & 3 require a majority vote of the Board.

Approximately 3 months prior to minimum date

Post Interview

Final Board decision to grant or deny parole. A grant of parole includes conditions and release of parole and starts the home plan investigation and release process.

Supervision

Parolee reports to the district office or community corrections center within 24 hours of release. Conditions of parole are reviewed with the field agent.

The Board of Probation and Parole (board) recommends you keep this booklet during the entire time you are incarcerated and on parole until you have completed supervision and your maximum sentence.

This book belongs to YOU!

It is provided to help you complete the information as you receive it.

PAROLE VIOLATORS – GO TO PAGE 20

Important Points for Success

- Parole preparation is your responsibility.
- You do not have a right to parole under Pennsylvania law.
- Your institutional parole agent and institutional counselor are your best source of information while you are in prison.
- You need to remain misconduct free.
- Developing a home plan that can be approved is your responsibility.
- You do not have a right to be paroled before completing treatment.
- Parole release is not immediate when you receive a decision granting you parole.
- Violent offenders must successfully complete violence prevention programming to be released on parole.
- Sex offenders must successfully complete sex offender treatment to be considered for parole.
- CALL YOUR PAROLE AGENT FIRST WHENEVER YOU HAVE A QUESTION OR PROBLEM WHILE ON PAROLE.
- Abide by your parole conditions and you will successfully complete your sentence.
- Your parole agent is your best source of information when you are released to parole.

Employees from the Department of Corrections and the Board of Probation and Parole will work with you throughout your time in prison.

Arrival at the Department of Corrections

Upon arrival at the Department of Corrections (DOC) you will be provided with an orientation, evaluated for physical and mental health needs, and evaluated to determine what factors contribute to you making decisions that lead you to commit crimes. When this is done you will be given a prescribed program list and assigned to a home institution.

You will then be transferred to your home institution. It is very important that you pay attention during this time period so that you understand what you must do to complete your sentence successfully.

What do I need to know when I first arrive at prison?

You were convicted in a court of law. Neither the DOC nor the board can change your conviction. They are required to make decisions based on your conviction. If you are appealing your conviction, as is your right, be aware that the appeal does not affect DOC and board decisions. You must follow DOC's rules, do your prescribed programs, and not get misconducts in order to best prepare for your parole interview.

What are MY responsibilities?

Start planning for your eventual reentry into society. Complete your required programming. Do not receive any misconducts while incarcerated.

What are DOC responsibilities?

DOC's primary responsibility is to ensure public safety by confining you for the duration of your incarceration in a humane manner. In addition, DOC is also responsible for providing opportunities for you to rehabilitate yourself so that you are more likely to become a law abiding, productive member of society upon your release.

Why is DOC asking me so many questions and putting me through tests?

DOC conducts evaluations to determine treatment and programming needs and health needs. DOC needs to know your health needs so they can provide adequate care during your incarceration. DOC needs to know what factors contributed to you making decisions that lead you to commit crimes so that you can be encouraged to take programs that will reduce your risk of committing new crimes after you are released.

Why do I need to do DOC's prescribed programs?

Because completing programming increases your chance to be paroled on your minimum date. Your prescribed program list is based on DOC's tests to determine your treatment needs.

If you do not make an effort to complete your prescribed programs before your minimum date, the board is less likely to grant you parole at your minimum date.

Sex Offenders: If you are convicted of a sex offense and you are not involved in programming, you will not be seen by the board until such time as you are in programming according to Act 98 of 2000.

How do I get into programs?

You will be placed on a waiting list at your institution for your prescribed programs. Priority for programs is given to those offenders closest to their minimum sentence date.

Why is remaining misconduct-free important to parole?

The board uses misconducts as an indicator of whether or not you have successfully adjusted to prison and can abide by rules governing your conduct. Serious misconducts may affect your chances for parole. The board reviews your misconduct record prior to your interview. Even if your misconducts are several years old, it may lead to the board imposing stricter conditions of parole on you if they decide to release you.

If I am a victim of sexual assault or rape by another inmate or institutional staff while I'm in prison, how may I report this safely?

You should report the incident to any staff member or use DOC's toll-free Sexual Assault Hotline (1.866.823.6703) for the general public and inmates (717.703.2702, to be used with the Facility Pin Number) to anonymously report a sexual assault to the Duty Officer at SCI-Camp Hill. The federal Prison Rape Elimination Act requires all states to put safeguards and confidential reporting options in place. Remember, if a guard or other staff member has sexual contact with you, he has committed the crime of Institutional Sexual Assault — even if you agreed to the sexual contact.

Why wouldn't I be released on my minimum date?

There is no right to parole in Pennsylvania. In Pennsylvania, the minimum date represents the minimum amount of time you must be incarcerated under DOC's control. You become eligible for parole release when you have served your minimum sentence. It's the board's job to determine whether you deserve to be on parole for any part of your sentence between your minimum and maximum dates. The board's main consideration is whether or not you have reduced your risk of committing a new crime and can safely be managed in the community.

If I am aware of a DOC or parole board staff member violating the law or abusing their position, how may I report this confidentially?

You may document the incident giving the date, time, and detailed description of what occurred and stating the names of those involved and send it to either the DOC or the board, depending on which department the person works for.

Parole Consideration

What are the parole board's responsibilities?

The board's primary responsibilities are to ensure public safety by deciding which inmates are ready for release to parole and to provide adequate supervision for those released for the duration of their sentence.

When should I be seen by the parole board?

The parole board tries to interview every offender approximately 4 months prior to your minimum date or 3 months prior to when you become eligible for re-parole. If you are within 4 months of, or past, your minimum date when you arrive at prison, you will be placed on the next available docket (the board's schedule of interviews each month).

Will transfers to another prison affect when I get interviewed for parole?

The board is notified every time you are transferred within DOC and will place you on the next available interview schedule at any state correctional institution. If you are sent to a county prison for court appearances, your interview may be delayed until you return and the court provides new sentencing information.

Parole interview preparation starts approximately 8 months prior to your minimum date. Institutional parole staff will contact you approximately 5 months prior to your minimum date to do a pre-interview. They will ask you questions in order to make sure your parole file is complete prior to the interview with the board member or hearing examiner. This pre-interview will require you to provide your written version of the circumstances of your offense – what happened and why.

Interview Preparation and Expectations

Parole interviews are held with one or more members of the parole staff face to face with you in the room. Usually this will consist of one board member or hearing examiner. A second person, usually a board member, will be video-linked to the interview if you are a violent offender. You are to treat the video-linked person as if they were present in the room with you.

What will the board look for when they interview me?

The board is required by law to consider the following factors:

- The nature and circumstances of the crime for which you were convicted, as well as your entire criminal history including any juvenile arrests or adjudications;
- Information regarding your general character and your background;

- Sentencing hearing testimony notes;
- Your physical, mental, and behavioral condition and history;
- History of family violence (if any);
- The recommendation of your sentencing judge and prosecuting attorney;
- Input from the victim and the victim's family (if any); and
- The recommendation from the warden or superintendent of the facility where you are incarcerated.

Some of the specific things they may ask about in relation to these factors are: your involvement in drug and alcohol programs if you have a drug or alcohol conviction; your participation in sex offender programs if you have a sex offense conviction; specifics regarding any misconducts; what you learned from each of your educational programs; and what you have done in your institutional job. You will be asked what you learned in the programs you attended.

If you have done your programming, received no misconducts and are honest, you have an increased probability of being paroled. You will always receive a fair interview. This is your opportunity to explain why you should be paroled.

What is the board's voting process?

Offenders are divided into three groups depending on your current offense for voting purposes:

1) murderers and sex offenders, 2) other violent offenders, and 3) non-violent offenders.

1. Murderers and sex offenders:

The majority of the board must vote 'yes' for an offender to be paroled. These offenders are usually interviewed jointly by two board members.

2. Other violent offenders:

At least 2 board members must vote 'yes' for an offender to be paroled. These offenders are usually interviewed jointly by two board members.

3. Non-violent offenders:

RRRI-eligible offenders may be paroled if they receive a 'yes' vote from a hearing examiner. Other non-violent offenders need one 'yes' vote from a hearing examiner and one 'yes' vote from a board member. These offenders are usually interviewed by a hearing examiner.

What should I say and how should I act at my interview?

You should tell the truth when answering any question by the board member or hearing examiner interviewing you. You should act respectful and keep your tone of voice calm and polite.

What should be my expectations in my parole interview?

Showing the board member or hearing examiner that you have reduced your risk of re-offending. You do this by taking responsibility for your crime(s), having completed your prescribed programming, having found a job and place to live upon your release, having adjusted well to prison (shown by no misconducts and receiving DOC's recommendation for parole), and having paid any victim restitution and costs and fines to the greatest extent possible while incarcerated.

I'm past my minimum and have been told I cannot see the board, why?

You may be ineligible to see the board if you are in RHU status, have not participated in or completed sex offender treatment as required by 42 PA. C.S. § 9718.1(A) (Act 98 of 2000), or your file lacks a needed document such as an official version of your crime, psychological test results, or a DOC recommendation regarding your parole.

Will I be paroled? What are my chances for parole?

Maybe. Your chances for parole depend on several factors. Your institutional parole agent and DOC counselor cannot answer this question. Only board members and hearing examiners have the authority to vote to grant or deny parole. Your answer will be in your board action or board decision that you will receive after your interview.

What should I have completed before my parole interview?

You should have successfully completed as many of your prescribed programs as possible – make sure the institutional parole agent is given documentation to show this. You should have submitted a proposed home plan, employment plan, paid your Crime Victims Compensation Fund fees, secured an official photo identification card, and paid as much victim restitution as possible.

Crime Victims Compensation Fund Payment Date

Amount Paid

Your Crime Victims Compensation Fund payment amount will depend on the date your offense was committed. This payment must be paid or you will not be released.

Home Plan Submission Date

(4 months prior to your minimum date or scheduled month of review) See page 25 for a copy of a home plan form.

Employment Plan Submission Date

Start sending letters requesting employment 12 months prior to your minimum date. You should have copies of all letters you sent to employers asking for a job. You should continue sending letters until you receive a job offer. (You will probably need to send 20-50 letters in order to receive one positive response.) How far back does the parole board look at misconducts?

The board looks at all misconducts, but concentrates on those that occurred within the past two years.

I've been requesting to get into programs for over a year and the DOC did not put me in programs. Can I still get paroled?

Yes, if the board decides that you can be safely supervised on the street and the programming is available at either a CCC or from a private provider, they may parole you and add the programming as a condition of parole.

If my programs are not complete because I was recently transferred here, will this affect my parole?

It depends on your risk and the type of programming needed. If you are currently in the program, the board may parole you upon completion of the program.

If my programs are not complete because I have been on the waiting list for a long time or not entered programs through no fault of my own will this reduce my chance of being paroled?

It depends on your risk and the type of programming needed. If the board decides that you can be safely supervised on the street and the programming is available at either a CCC or from a private provider, they may parole you and add the programming as a condition of parole.

How long does it take to receive a board action/decision?

It depends. Parole decisions generally take 6 weeks to process from the date of interview.

Is there any place online that an offender's family can check the status of the board action?

No. The board does not have an online inquiry service. Family members, friends and attorneys should check with the offender. If it has been more than 10 weeks since being interviewed, inmates should check directly with their institutional parole agent. Family members, friends and attorneys may call (see phone number below) or write to the board's Inmate Inquiry Unit for information regarding the status of individual cases. Both family and inmates need to be patient – the length of time needed is dependent on the individual circumstances of each case.

717.772.4343

Home Plans

When will my home plan be checked out?

Home plan investigations are not done until after you receive a board action granting parole. Investigations are usually done within 3-4 weeks after you receive your board action if you submitted a plan prior to your interview. See page 25 for a full copy of a home plan form.

If I am a sex offender will I be able to live with my family?

Maybe. Home plans for sex offenders must comply with the board's sex offender protocol. As an example, if your sex offense involved a minor victim, your home plan cannot be within close proximity of a daycare, school, playground, or other place that minors gather. Note: Agents may impose additional conditions on a case by case basis.

Can I stay in a home if someone living there is already on parole or probation?

Maybe. It depends on the other person's relationship to you and whether or not their presence would increase your risk of re-offending.

Can a home plan be to a residence with a dog? Can we get a dog after I am living there?

This depends on the type and number of dogs and their personalities. The parole agent's safety is the primary consideration regarding whether a specific dog is allowed. This decision will be made by the parole agent who inspects the home or who supervises you after release. Always ask your parole agent before adding a dog to a residence so that you are not forced to get rid of the dog or move to a new residence in order to comply with your parole supervision.

If I own my own business, do I need to submit an employment plan or job letters?

Yes. You still need to submit an employment plan that states what you will be doing. See page 26 for a copy of an employment plan form.

If I expect to collect disability, do I need to submit job letters?

No, but you must provide documentation of your disability status.

How do I apply to live in another state after release?

Interstate home plans must be submitted through your institutional parole agent. Such interstate transfer applications require a non-reimbursable application fee of $100 at the time of application. The person in the other state who will be your home provider will need to submit a letter of financial responsibility stating they will provide for your food and housing needs until you are able to provide for yourself.

Understanding Your Board Action

Your board action, also called a board action/decision (previously referred to as a “green sheet”, but they are now printed on white paper), will tell you whether you are granted or denied parole and the reasons for the decision. It does not guarantee your release from prison.

If you are granted parole, the board action will state the special conditions of parole you must comply with once released. These are in addition to the general conditions of parole all parolees must obey. The general conditions are listed on page 27.

If you are denied parole, the board action will state what programming you need to complete or other actions you need to take in order to improve your chances for parole at your next interview.

Can I appeal a board action denying parole?

No. Under Pennsylvania law, parole is a privilege not a right. Courts have consistently stated that a denial of parole is not able to be appealed.

What do the general statements for refusal on a board action mean?

If your parole denial contains a general statement that you do not demonstrate a motivation for success, it means that neither your completion of programs nor your interview statements show that you want to succeed as a law-abiding citizen.

If your parole denial contains a general statement regarding your risk and needs assessment, it means that you have a high risk of re-offending according to your evaluations.

If your parole denial contains a general statement regarding lack of remorse or not taking responsibility for your crime(s), it means that your statements and actions during your interview give the impression that you do not care about the impact of your actions on other people and society. Blaming others for your offenses and not caring that you harmed other people shows that you are not ready to be a law-abiding citizen.

Why should I accept responsibility for crimes if I'm innocent?

If you believe you are innocent, you need to pursue relief through the court appeals process. The board must accept your conviction as fact and base its decision on what you have done to rehabilitate yourself so that you will not re-offend in the future. Any claim of innocence could be viewed as a denial of responsibility and a lack of remorse. If you are appealing your conviction, simply state that to the interviewer.

What does parole to detainer mean?

Parole to detainer means you are not being released. It is a grant of parole to a detainer sentence, which is a sentence separate from the one you are currently serving. The detainer ensures that when you have been paroled on your present sentence you will be turned over to the authority imposing the detainer sentence to serve the next sentence, rather than being released from confinement. It means that you are allowed to start serving the other Pennsylvania sentence while on parole or will be sent to the other jurisdiction to start serving their sentence.

What are special conditions of parole?

Conditions of parole are the rules you need to live by the entire time you are under parole supervision. These rules are not the same for every parolee. They are tailored specifically to you and your risks.

Can I appeal a condition of parole or ask for it to be lifted at a later date?

Yes. You may request that the board reconsider any condition if circumstances change. This appeal process is internal to the board. You must ask your parole agent to submit a 'Memo to the board' requesting the change and giving your justification. The decision of the board is final. You cannot appeal a special condition of parole through the court system. It is more likely that the board will consider lifting a condition of parole if you have served at least one year under parole supervision with no violations.

If you are still in prison and you have documentation to prove a condition may not be applicable to you, you may provide a copy to the institutional parole agent and ask them to send the information to the board for consideration. However, realize that while your request is being considered, all work on your release processing will be delayed until a decision is made by the board regarding the request.

Who determines what programming I have to do once released?

The board determines what programming you must complete while on parole based on your correctional plan. Your supervising agent may also send you to programming if you would benefit from a specific class.

If you are returned to DOC for a parole violation, the DOC will determine your programming needs.

My board action paroles me to a specialized center. Why do I have this condition and what does it mean?

You are required to go to a specialized center because you have been identified as an offender who needs violence prevention programming before going to live in an approved home. A specialized center is a CCC having the staff and ability to provide violence prevention programming. As of January 2011, there are seven (7) such centers statewide.

The Parole Release Process

What Happens After Parole Is Granted?

Parole release is not immediate when you receive your board action granting you parole. There may be several things that need to occur before you are released to parole supervision. Your institutional agent will go over what steps apply to your case when you are given your board action. You will also be given an estimate of how long the process may take.

When you receive a board action/decision granting parole, you must then meet other release requirements which take up additional time – some are listed below. You may have others stated in your board action. Ask your institutional parole agent to verify which ones apply to you.

What do I need to know once I have a board action granting me parole?

If your board action/decision contains conditions that must be fulfilled before you are released, you must complete them before any release processing will begin. You must also remain misconduct free. Any detainers or new charges may delay or invalidate your parole.

Release checklist

- ☐ Crime Victims' Compensation Fund Payment
- ☐ DOC RRRI Certification
- ☐ Victim Awareness Class Completion (if applicable)
- ☐ DNA Sample (if you have a past or present felony conviction)
- ☐ Megan's Law Registration (if required)
- ☐ Completed Programming (if noted)
- ☐ Urinalysis
- ☐ Chairman's Certification (CERT) (if violent crime)
- ☐ CCC Bed Date
- ☐ Approved Home Plan
- ☐ Release Orders from the Board
- ☐ Release Date from DOC

Note: An in-state (Pennsylvania) home plan is valid for 150 days.

An out-of-state home plan is valid for 120 days.

A urine test is good for 45 days.

How long until I get released?

It depends. Legally you cannot be released on parole prior to your minimum sentence date. If you have completed all required programming, are a non-violent offender, have an approved home plan or CCC bed date, and have no detainers, release may occur within a short time frame. The average inmate is released within 130 days of being interviewed. However, offenders with violent convictions will take much longer.

My family needs me out to help now, why aren't my family needs considered?

An inmate may not be released until all legal requirements are met. Release is not allowed to be determined based on outside events, but only when all requirements are met.

What does a "when available" board action/decision mean?

"When available" means that the board cannot consider you for parole because you have outstanding criminal charges or a new conviction that must be disposed of before your current sentence (and parole status) can be finalized. You are determined to "be available" when the board receives an official version of the disposition of charges (records from the court).

What fees must be paid before I'm released?

It depends on your offense.

Crime Victims Compensation Payment Required ☐ Yes ☐ No Amount $_____

(Acts 27, 35, 85, 86, or 96)

Crime Victims Compensation Payment Date
(Two months prior to your Minimum Date)

What does being a "category 3" offender mean to my release?

Category 3 offenders are those offenders who are considered to be most likely to re-offend in a violent manner. If you are designated as a category 3 offender it will mean you are required to take a violence prevention program, be released to a specialized CCC to take a violence prevention booster program, and that you will be under a higher level of parole supervision when released to a home plan.

How do I find out what category I am?

Ask your DOC counselor or your institutional parole agent. Your category is determined based on three factors:

- 1) Are you currently serving a conviction for a violent offense?
- 2) Have you had a conviction (or juvenile adjudication) for a violent offense within the 10 years prior to your current incarceration? and
- 3) What is your RST level?

Why should I get a photo ID before I am released?

Most employers will require you to have a government-issued photo ID. You also need a government-issued photo ID to access all government programs including social security, medical assistance, and welfare. You can, and should, authorize DOC to allow money to be deducted from your inmate account to obtain a copy of your birth certificate and a photo ID card. Your inmate ID is not acceptable when you walk out the gate.

What is CERT?

CERT stands for 'Chairman's Certification' – the final review of a violent offender's file that must be done to verify that all legal requirements for parole release have been met. Release orders may only be issued after the chairman of the board has signed this certification.

How do I get into a half-way house?

A community corrections center (CCC), often called a halfway house, is a residency under the jurisdiction of the DOC. To be placed in a CCC, DOC must approve your placement and provide a bed date. This will be requested for you by institutional parole staff if your board action/decision states you are paroled to a CCC. The Department of Corrections is responsible for placing offenders at community corrections centers. The board encourages each offender to work with his institutional parole officer to develop an approved home plan in order to expedite placement.

When will I get a bed date and what CCC will I go to?

The DOC controls the location and times for bed dates. The parole agent only makes a referral to a DOC Corrections Classification Program manager (DOC CCPM). You may check with your corrections counselor or the institutional parole agent if you have not received a bed date within one month of receiving your paroling board action.

Sex offenders:

Inmates that have any sexual offense convictions in their history will be placed faster at a CCC if they have an approved home plan.

Parole Supervision

How does supervision work?

Your institutional agent will review your parole conditions with you before you are released. Once you report to your supervising district office, these conditions will be reviewed with you a second time. Each time you must sign a document stating that you understand the conditions. You must abide by the law and follow all of your parole conditions. Supervision will end when your maximum sentence date arrives.

Within 24 hours of release from prison you must appear in person at the district office where your parole agent reports if you are going directly to a home plan. If you are paroled to a CCC, you will be seen by the agent assigned to the CCC and told when to report to the district office.

You will be assigned to the caseload of an individual parole agent. This agent is your first point of contact regarding any problems you encounter while on parole. Your agent is responsible for helping guide you in making decisions which will keep you out of prison. The agent is also responsible for enforcing your conditions of parole. You and your agent need to develop a relationship based on honesty and respect.

You are expected to work and complete all required programs while you are on parole. If you are unemployed, you are expected to actively look for work or be attending school.

If you are arrested for a crime while on parole or you are accused of assaultive behavior against another person, you will most likely be returned to prison. Other violations of your parole may or may not result in re-incarceration depending on what the violation is and if it's a repeat behavior. All violations will result in a sanction ranging from curfew, increased urine testing, or attending programming to being placed in an in-patient treatment or technical parole violator center.

What happens if I stop reporting to my agent?

If you stop meeting with your agent, you are considered a parole absconder. When you are declared an absconder, the board will issue a nation-wide warrant for your arrest. You may lose all credit or "street time" from the time when you were released from prison until the time you are re-arrested. This time may be added back to your sentence if you are returned to prison. If you are convicted of a new crime while on parole, you will lose all of the time you were on the street.

How do I file an appeal or request to have a condition of supervision changed or removed?

If you are under parole supervision, you submit a request for the change of condition to your parole agent. If your parole agent denies your request, you may appeal it to the agent's supervisor. If the supervisor denies your request, you may appeal it to the district director, regional director and the deputy executive director. If it is a mandatory condition placed on you by the board, the appeal request must go to the board for removal.

How can I report an alleged abuse of power or criminal activity by a parole agent?

Complaints regarding parole agents should be sent to the address given on page 6. Information regarding alleged criminal activity by parole agents should be provided to your local or state police for investigation.

What must I do to successfully complete parole?

You must comply with all of your conditions of parole and not commit a new crime.

Am I allowed to contact my local, state and federal elected officials regarding parole issues?

Yes. You may contact these officials regarding any issue. You do not need to tell your parole agent of this contact nor may the agent retaliate in any way due to such contact.

May I vote while on parole?

Yes. You may register and vote in any local, state, or national election while on parole in Pennsylvania.

I have served my maximum sentence. Why am I being told I will be supervised by a state parole agent?

You are a county “special probation” case. You have a county probation sentence that follows your state prison sentence. Judges are allowed to ask the board to supervise any county probation or county parole case if certain conditions exist. Offenders serving such sentences must abide by any conditions the judge sets on their case. These will, at a minimum, include the board’s general conditions of parole.

Violations of Parole

What do I need to know if I am detained or recommitted for a parole violation?

You have a right to both a first and second level hearing as part of your due process rights. You may waive these rights.

First level hearings:

Preliminary hearings are for parolees with technical parole violations. These hearings are held within 14 days of detention on the board’s warrant.

Detention hearings are for parolees with new criminal charges. These hearings are held within 30 days of detention on the board’s warrant.

The burden of proof for preliminary and detention hearings is “probable cause,” which means there is a reasonable basis to find that you violated your parole. These hearings may not be needed under certain circumstances.

Second level hearings:

Revocation hearings are for parolees who committed a criminal act while on parole or delinquent on parole (convicted parole violator) and are convicted or found guilty by a judge or jury or to which the parolee pleads guilty or no contest in a court of record of a crime punishable by imprisonment. This hearing is held either within 120 days from the date the board receives official verification of the plea of guilty, no contest plea or guilty verdict at the highest trial court level or within 120 days of the date the board receives official verification of the your return to a Pennsylvania state correctional institution depending on the circumstances. You may waive this hearing right.

Violation hearings are for parolees who violated either a general or special condition of parole (technical parole violator). This hearing is held within 120 days of the preliminary hearing. You may waive this hearing right.

The burden of proof for revocation and violation hearings is “preponderance of the evidence,” which means it more likely than not that the parolee violated parole.

What are the possible outcomes?

First level hearings:

Either ‘continue on parole’ or ‘detain pending second level hearing.’

Continuing on parole after first level hearings means the decision maker did not find a reasonable basis to conclude that you violated your parole or the circumstances did not warrant detaining you.

Second level hearings:

Either ‘continue on parole’ – with or without new conditions or “recommit.”

You may be placed in a community corrections center, a community corrections facility or a parole violator center (“CCC/CCF/PVC”). In accordance with 61 Pa. C.S. § 6138, all technical parole violators (parolees who violate one or more conditions of their parole) will go to a CCC/CCF/PVC unless the violation was sexual in nature, involved assaultive behavior, involved possession of a weapon, the parole violator poses an identifiable threat to public safety or the parole violator is an absconder who cannot be safely managed in a CCC/CCF/PVC. In that case, the parole violator will be returned to a contracted county jail (“CCJ”) or a state correctional institution (“SCI”). Technical parole violators sent to a CCC/CCF/PVC will usually serve between 60 and 120 days, depending on their satisfactory adjustment while at the center. The maximum length of recommitment to a CCC/CCF/PVC is six months. The parole violator will be released on automatic reparole at that time unless they are not in “good standing with the board”.

Technical parole violators returned to CCJ or an SCI will serve at most six months for the first violation, nine months for the second violation and one year for the third and subsequent violations before being automatically repared. However, if the offender has committed disciplinary infractions involving assaultive behavior, sexual assault, possession of a weapon or controlled substance, spent more than 90 days in segregated housing due to one or more disciplinary actions or refused programming or work assignments, the technical parole violator is not entitled to automatic reparole.

Convicted parole violators (parolees recommitted for a new crime) will be returned to and SCI and will stay there until the board determines they are ready to reenter the community. If convicted, the board can recommit you to serve the balance of your sentence with no credit for time at liberty on parole. 61 Pa. C.S. § 6138 gives the board discretion in determining whether to award street time to some categories of convicted parole violators.

“Continuing on parole” after a second level hearing means either the decision makers did not find enough evidence to suggest you violated your parole OR it could mean there was enough evidence to recommit you to prison but the decision makers feel that you could be safely returned to the street with additional sanctions.

“Recommitment” means you were found to have violated your parole and the decision makers chose to return you to a CCC/CCF/CCJ or SCI.

What happens if I waive my right to have hearings?

When a parolee waives his/her hearing rights, the board will examine the facts of the case and make a decision based on your waiver, admission (if applicable) and any reports or evidence that are made available. The board will then make a decision on whether recommitment is warranted based on that information and issue one or more board actions reflecting that decision.

What is a parole violation center?

A PVC is a secure CCC which you will not be allowed to leave during your time there. You will immediately receive programming at the PVC. You will likely be released to an approved plan in a much shorter time period than if you were re-incarcerated, as long as you successfully complete all programming and requirements. PVC stays are designed to be anywhere from 60 to 120 days, depending on your program completion and satisfactory adjustment. If you fail the PVC program, you will be unsuccessfully discharged and returned to a CCJ or an SCI. You may be sent to a PVC directly upon waiving hearings or by the decision from a hearing.

How and when may I appeal violation recommitment decisions?

You may appeal a decision by sending a letter stating the reasons for your appeal to the board. You must appeal a recommitment and or recalculation decision within 30 days of the mailing date stamped on the decision. The appeal should be sent to:

Board of Probation and Parole
Office of Board Secretary – Appeals
1101 South Front Street
Harrisburg, PA 17104

When and how does a recommitment affect my sentence calculation?

There are two times when recommitment may change your maximum sentence date calculation.

First, if you are recommitted as a convicted parole violator, the board may deny you credit for all of the time you are at liberty on parole by adding this time to your prior maximum sentence date. This includes street time, time in halfway houses that are not deemed to be equivalent to imprisonment and time incarcerated on another sentence.

Second, if you are recommitted as a technical parole violator and you are found to be delinquent (i.e. you failed to report or you changed your residence without permission), the board will deny you credit for the time you were delinquent by adding this time to your prior maximum sentence date.

When can I be reparaoled?

Your board action/decision will state when you are to be reparaoled or you are eligible for reparole. You will be interviewed approximately four months prior to any review date, or on the next available docket following that date. However, there is no right to be reviewed for reparole absent a parole application.

If you are arrested on new criminal charges, the board has the authority to lodge a detainer against you which will prevent your release from custody, pending disposition of those charges, even though you may have posted bail or been released on your own recognizance from those charges.

If you violate a condition of your parole/reparole and, after the appropriate hearing(s), the board decides that you are in violation of a condition of your parole/reparole, you may be recommitted to prison for such time as may be specified by the board.

If you think that any of your rights have been violated as a result of your parole supervision, you may submit a timely complaint in writing, first to the district director of the district office through which you are being supervised. If your complaint is not resolved to your satisfaction, you may then submit your complaint in writing to the Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole, Office of Probation and Parole Services, 1101 South Front St. Suite 5400, Harrisburg, PA 17104-2520

Any items, in the possession of which constitutes a violation of parole/reparole shall be subject to seizure, and may be used as evidence in the parole revocation process.
